

What Health Insurance Reform means for you

On March 21, 2010 I proudly cast my vote in favor of the Health Care and Education Affordability Reconciliation Act.

Despite my concerns with the bill, I voted for it. Why? Because a vote in favor of the bill means that 32 million more Americans will have access to health care coverage. A vote in favor means that 45,000 Americans won't lose their lives each year because they are too poor to have health insurance or because their illnesses are too expensive. A yes vote means that the Medicare program will continue to provide important benefits to our seniors. A vote in favor means reducing the deficit by $143 billion over the next ten years, with $1.2 trillion in additional deficit reduction in the following 10 years. And a vote for the bill means that we will take a giant leap forward in our quest to ensure that all Americans have access to health care that they can afford.

That's why I am proud of my vote in favor the Health Care and Education Affordability Reconciliation Act, a bill that will have immeasurable benefits for the American people for years to come.
